

LATIN AMERICAN AND LATINO STUDIES MINOR

The Latin American and Latino Studies Minor is a vibrant interdisciplinary program that combines invigorating research, teaching, and community engagement with focus on the rich heritage and contemporary trends of Latino-based cultures in the United States and beyond.

Latin American and Latino Studies students find multiple opportunities to participate in different projects housed in the program, such as Latinx Oral History initiatives, Study Abroad, Collaborations with other departments, colleges, and universities, etc. With a hands-on approach, the program explores relevant social and cultural issues of transnationalism, migration, diasporas, Latina feminism(s), Latinx intersectionality, gender and identity, Latinx health and sexuality, linguistics, poetry and creative writing, Colonialism/Postcolonialism, Indigenous Peoples from Latin America, among others.

Students complete 18 credits, three of which are used to build a tailor-made capstone project in their field of interest.
